FEBRUARY 2017 HIGHLIGHTS

Alaskan Bush People

From Monday 20 February at 22:00

Deep in the Alaskan wilderness lives a newly discovered family who was born and raised wild. Billy Brown, his wife Ami and their seven grown children – five boys and two girls – are so far removed from civilization that they often go six to nine months of the year without seeing an outsider. They've developed their own accent and dialect, refer to themselves as a "wolf pack," and at night, all nine sleep together in a one-room cabin. Simply put, they are unlike any other family in America. Recently, according to the Browns, the cabin where they lived for years was seized and burned to the ground for being in the wrong location on public land. They were devastated, but must work together to build a new cabin that will protect them from the harsh Alaskan environment. It's a race against the clock as the winter gets closer and closer.

Arctic Rescue

From Monday 27 February at 22:45

Fairbanks, Alaska is home to some of the harshest weather conditions in North America, where snowstorms and blizzards can make roadways impassable in only a matter of minutes. When motorists become stranded, three towing companies are called on to pull them to safety: Borealis, Ron's and Lucky 7. These three teams have worked through the worst that nature can throw at them, but with snowfall capable of topping 12 feet and temperatures that far below zero, every rescue attempt comes with a high-degree of risk. Only the strong survive Alaska's brutal winter - are these teams up to the challenge?

Showcasing some of the most difficult, dangerous and extreme ways to make a living, we join some hard-as-nails workers and get a behind the scenes look at some of the world's most deadly jobs. In American Loggers meet the seven brothers of Pelletier Inc – a family with timber in its blood. Every day they lead crews into the woods to claw out a living in the forests of Northern Maine. In Ice Cold Gold we put the spotlight on a motley team of gold miners hoping to strike it rich in the hazardous and frozen terrain of Greenland. The search for gold continues on the floor of the Bering Sea in Gold Divers as crews of tough men and women brave the icy waters off Alaska to seek gold in some of the world's most treacherous conditions. And, in Deadliest Catch, follow the exploits of the world's toughest commercial fishermen as they brave the dangerous waters to catch lucrative crab for the market. They're deadly jobs, but someone has to do them.
